DESIGN REPORT: HOTEL HIPOTELS DON JUAN

The Hotel Hipotels Don Juan, in Cala Millor (Mallorca), is a project that marks a before and after in this property's identity.

"A Mediterranean oasis where contemporary comfort and the atmosphere of the Balearic Islands come together to create memorable experiences in every corner of the hotel". The project reinterprets the essence of the island through a luminous, natural aesthetic. Open spaces, natural materials and a constant dialogue with the marine environment shape an elegant, fresh and authentically Mediterranean proposal.

Design and materials: light, texture and serenity

Each space responds to a single narrative: the pursuit of a bright, natural and balanced Mediterranean atmosphere. The intervention combines all the functionality of a hotel with an aesthetic sensitivity that prioritises light, comfort and the visual connection with the surroundings.

The colour palette features warm neutral tones, nuanced with deep navy blues and soft shades of aquamarine. Light wood, paired with local stone and natural fabrics, lends an honest and timeless Mediterranean identity. In the rooms, the contrast of darker woods and soft hues reinforces the sense of intimacy and balance.

A vision materialised through the use of ceramic as a common denominator for the various spaces. Ceramic tiles appear throughout: floor tiles in all the main communal areas; checkerboard patterns on outdoor terraces to define the zones; wall tiles for buffet counters and ceramic "rugs" on the buffet stations; and coverings for the curved walls, spa areas, pool and poolside, exterior columns and outdoor tabletops, etc.
